“ What I learned in class led us to a lot of good conversations. My husband didn't want to talk about retirement. ”

Patty — Webster City, Iowa

What is Managing for Today and Tomorrow: Farm Transition Planning?

The decisions made during business, estate, retirement and succession planning are combined to form a farm transition plan. Planning ensures the farm can continue to the next generation as a productive agricultural business. This course is taught in the tradition of Annie's Project and incorporates a comfortable and supportive learning environment. Course participants of all ages and experience levels will be empowered to confidently set goals, nurture effective family or non-family conversations, and define the farm legacy.

At the end of five weeks, participants will know more about:

- Business Planning
 - ▶ Personal and farm business finances
 - ▶ Describing farm transition goals and strategies
- Estate Planning
 - ▶ Estate planning terms, concepts and tools
 - ▶ Assembling necessary information
 - ▶ Strategies for transferring assets
- Retirement Planning
 - ▶ Sources of retirement income
 - ▶ Planning for a productive and enjoyable time in life
- Succession Planning
 - ▶ How to have essential conversations
 - ▶ Differentiating between fair and equal
 - ▶ Strategies for transferring management
